

Send your isolation gown
to the laundry
—not the trash.

Reusable isolation gowns are meant to be washed and reworn.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) have not recommended the destruction or incineration of linens exposed to COVID-19.¹

Your healthcare laundry's strict adherence to proven, effective wash practices and infection-prevention measures will continue to provide safe, quality textiles.

If you believe you may have been exposed to COVID-19, please throw dirty isolation gowns into a standard blue linen bag—not a red incineration bag.
